PRINCETON THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1964 • VOL. 1 • No. 1

The Wineskin

Introducing . . .

a new publication to the Princeton Seminary campus. THE WINESKIN will preview coming events, introduce visitors to the campus and, in general, keep you informed on what's happening on campus. All students and faculty are encouraged to use this as a means of promotion and announcement. The deadline for the Friday publication is Monday noon at the Publications office in 115 Hodge Hall.

The 1964-65 academic year will also see the second year of publication for VIEWPOINT and DIMENSION. The former is published by a board of editors including David Wills, Ted Scott, Dwyn Mounger and John Galloway. The latter is headed up by Clayton Carlson and his staff.

VIEWPOINT has as its purpose the stimulation of intellectual and spiritual "give and take" within the seminary community. It is a sounding board for faculty and student opinion. It is not intended to be a scholarly or literary masterpiece—but rather a medium through which students and faculty can speak to pertinent issues as they arise.

DIMENSION is a student theological journal published each semester. It is based on the conviction that in order for theological education to achieve the utmost in excellence it should, and, indeed, it must provide and encourage the opportunity for original thought.

Contributions to any of these publications can be made either to the various staffs or at the office of the Director of Student Publications at 115 Hodge Hall.

Dr. McCord Announces New Administrative Appointments

Two new administrative appointments have been announced by President James I. McCord as the new academic year begins. William E. Lawder of Princeton is the new Treasurer and Business Manager, and Dr. Jack Cooper, former Presbytery Executive of the Presbytery of Albany, has been named Director of Continuing Education.

Lawder, who was formerly a Senior Management Information System Analyst for Esso International, succeeded George W. Loos, Jr., who retired after thirty-seven years of service to the seminary. The new treasurer, forty-five

Dr. Burleigh of Scotland to Speak on Augustine

On October 5th and 6th the Seminary will welcome to its campus the Very Reverend Principal John H. S. Burleigh of Scotland. At 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, October 6th Principal Burleigh will present a lecture entitled, "De Civitate Dei."

Principal Burleigh served as a parish minister in Aberdeen and Dundee before joining the faculty of Edinburgh University in 1931 as Professor of Ecclesiastical History. He served as Dean of the Faculty of Divinity since 1956 and as Principal since 1964.

Among Principal Burleigh's numerous publications are A Study of St. Augustine's Philosophy and Saint Augustine; Earlier Writings. While in this country, he will be lecturing on various aspects of the life and thought of St. Augustine.

Dr. Edler G. Hawkins

Moderator Hawkins To Preach At Fall Communion

Dr. Edler G. Hawkins, Moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will preach at the traditional fall Communion Service at Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., Sunday, Oct. 4.

It will be Dr. Hawkin's first appearance on the Princeton Seminary campus since his election as Moderator in May. Seminary President James I. McCord will conduct the observance, which coincides with World-Wide Communion Sunday, in Miller Chapel, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Dr. Hawkins is pastor of the St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in New York City, and he was the first Negro to be elected Moderator of the United Presbyterian Church.

Although he has been active in the Civil Rights movement throughout his ministry, Dr. Hawkins is primarily a pastor. He founded the St. Augustine Church following graduation from Union Theological Seminary in New York City in 1938. Under his leadership the church has grown to a membership of about

Junior Faculty Changes

One promotion and six new appointments to the faculty were announced as Princeton Seminary began its one hundred and fifty-third academic year ten days ago.

James E. Loder, who joined the Christian Education department staff in 1962, has been promoted to the rank of Assistant Professor. New Instructors and their departments include: Donald Chatfield, Homiletics; Francisco Garcia-Treto, Old Testament; David Hay, New Testament; Peter W. Macky, Biblical Studies. In addition, Christopher M. Meadows, III, has been appointed Assistant in Field Education, and Donald M. Walter has been named Research Assistant in New Testament.

Loder holds degrees from Carleton College, Princeton Seminary, and Harvard Divinity School, where he earned his doctorate. He has been a Fellow in Religion and Psychiatry at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas, and he has also served as a pastor in Massachusetts.

Garcia-Treto, Macky, and Meadows are all candidates for the Th.D. degree from Princeton Seminary. Garcia-Treto is a graduate of Maryville College and Princeton Seminary. Macky received the B.A. degree from both Harvard University and the University of Oxford before he completed his B.D. at Princeton. Meadows is a graduate of Baylor University, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and Princeton Seminary, where he earned the Th.M.

Donald Walter was awarded the Doctor of Theology degree from Princeton Seminary at commencement last June. He is an alumnus of Lafayette College, and he had previously earned the B.D. and Th.M. from Princeton.

Hay is joining the seminary community for the first time. He is a graduate of Duke University and Yale Divinity School, and is a Ph.D. candidate at Yale, where he earned a Master of Arts degree. Chatfield received his B.A. degree from Yale University and B.D. degree from Princeton Seminary. He was awarded the Ph.D. degree from Edinburgh in June.

Evangelistic Fellowship Begins 31st Year

There was a spirit of freshness and vitality evident as the Evangelistic Fellowship opened its thirty first year. At the initial meeting Dr. James I. McCord, President of the Seminary, spoke on the meaning of true evangelism. He warned against the "unbiblical, unhistorical, individualistic and absorptionist evangelism" which he said though it is a distortion, has gained unfortunate popularity. He emphasized the true biblical evangelism that is "concerned with man in his whole being."

Howard Friend, the president of the group, said that the Fellowship will continue its team ministry to local churches this year but will also "join hands with the church at large in looking critically at the whole subject of evangelism." Several clergymen—such as Ernest Campbell, Howard Hageman, Dick Gilbert and James Lapsley—have been invited to help open up various aspects of the question.

Students are invited to participate in the program of the Fellowship at various levels from team membership to dinner discussions. Further information can be obtained from Dean Foose in the Field Work office or from Dick Kimbrough and Dick Grear, officers of the group.

Dr. Howard T. Kuist

Tribute to Dr. Howard T. Kuist

by James I. McCord

The key human factor in the equation of theological education is the teacher. The student depends upon him as a guide to the scholarship essential to his later ministry. The rest of the faculty depends on him as a member of a team with shared responsibilties. The institution depends upon him as a man who will meet a set of duties determined in the light of the total responsibility of the faculty and staff. And the Church depends upon his ability to transmit to each succeeding student generation a knowledge of and a zeal for the Word of God that is the Church's reason for existence.

One is reminded vividly of all these dimensions when a colleague is suddenly taken from our midst. Howard Tillman Kuist was a teacher par excellence. More than twenty-five years ago he welcomed me to his classes, and five years ago he welcomed me to Princeton Seminary as a colleague on this faculty. Like hundreds of other students and friends, I too had come to depend upon him.

It is a tribute to Dr. Kuist's teaching ability and splendid discipline that the ministry of theological education here at the Seminary continued to function when he was suddenly called home. His lectures had been completed, his final examinations were ready to be distributed, and his students were prepared for them. His colleagues in the Department of Biblical Studies were able to complete his assignments without any loss of the orderly progression of the work in his area.

This is not to say that Dr. Kuist had completed his work. We had all looked forward to another year of his valuable service, and then to his being granted many additional years of relative freedom to pursue his own researches, especially in connection with the Index of Religious Art. That we are to be denied the privilege of continued association is our loss, and it is a great and grievous one. But those who know the spirit of this teacher of ministers will understand our feeling that this final call to service was one for which he was personally ready.

Dr. Kuist's contributions are many—published volumes, frequent appearances in churches as preacher or lecturer, service as a member of New Brunswick Presbytery—but no contribution was greater than the one made in the classroom, where he imparted the love and knowledge of the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments to generations of students.

To those of us who were his students or colleagues, and especially to the few of us who had the privilege of being both, he was above all else a man devoted to the ministry of helping others to "rightly divide the word of truth."

With all the alumni, faculty and students I join in extending deepest sympathy to Mrs. Kuist and her sons and in glorifying God for the gift of this great and good man.

1,000 persons. The congregation is both multiracial and multilingual.

Dr. Hawkins holds the B.A. degree from Bloomfield College in N. J. In 1960 Bloomfield awarded him an honorary D.D. degree.

The communion service culminates activities which have begun the seminary's one hundred fifty-third year. The entering students include 100 new candidates for the Bachelor of Divinity degree and 15 who are studying for the Master of Religious Education degree. They join 97 Middler and 95 Senior B.D. candidates and 16 M.R.E. Seniors as undergraduates. Nine students are spending the year in internships. There are 108 Th.M. students registered this year, and 44 are pursuing doctoral studies. In addition, 22 special students are enrolled, bringing the total number of students to 506, according to Dr. James F. Armstrong, Registrar.

years old, began his business career in 1939 as an office boy for Standard Oil of New Jersey. He entered the Army in 1941 as a private in the New York National Guard and was separated from active duty in 1945 as a first lieutenant. Returning to Standard Oil, he advanced through the positions of Securities Clerk, Assistant Cashier, Head of Custody Section, Senior Secruities Analyst and Assistant Division Manager of the Payroll and Payroll Tax Divisions. In 1960 he began work for Esso International.

Mr. Lawder is married to the former Marion Jean Black. They have three children. He is chairman of the Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian Church in Princeton. He is also active as a leader in the Boy Scouts of America, serving as Institutional Representative for Troop 43 and Vice-Chairman of the Stonybrook District of the Boy Scouts.

Dr. Cooper joined the staff of Princeton Seminary on October 1, after six years as General Presbyter (chief executive officer) of the Presbytery of Albany in New York State. A graduate of Princeton Seminary in 1943, Cooper had earlier been graduated from Wagner Memorial Lutheran College. In 1948 he was granted the Th.D. degree by the University of Edinburg, and he has also studied at Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Ordained in 1943 by New York Presbytery, Cooper served three years as a Navy chaplain. He was an assistant minister in Scotland while studying in that country, and in 1949 became the minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Watervliet, N. Y. In 1951 he was called to the pastorate of the State Street Presbyterian Church of Schenectady, N. Y., where he served seven years until accepting the executive leadership of Albany Presbytery.

A native of Baltimore, Maryland, he is married to the former Jean Ritchie. The couple has four children.

As Director of Continuing Education Cooper will be in charge of a program that has drawn more than 1,200 ministers and laymen to Princeton Seminary for seminars in its first two years of existence. Designed primarily to fit the needs of ministers for continued intellectual and professional growth, the Center of Continuing Education also schedules seminars for business executives, lay church leaders, educators, church administrators and other professional groups.

P. T. S. SPORTS

by Ken Parker

The 1964-65 academic year is underway and with the thoughts of studies and work come also the thoughts of athletics and play. The athletic program we have planned this year is similar in many ways to the program of the past years with new ideas added.

Since the purpose of an athletic program at our school is basically for the fun and enjoyment of the students and the faculty, the program will be based upon the interest shown by the students and the faculty. The basic philosophy this year will be to have the emphasis on variety with a number of sports and athletic events offered to the academic community.

It is my hope that the faculty and administration will also take part in the athletic program as well as the wives, M.R.E. students, and other members of the distaff side of our seminary life.

The year will be divided into three time segments and all planned events will take place within these time limits (tournaments, scheduled inter-dorm games and etc.). At the end of the time limit all activities pre-planned for his period will end.

While I am very interested in the athletic program of the seminary and will do anything in my power to provide a well rounded and balanced program, I am limited. I cannot create a team or a tournament if there is no interest from you, the student body and faculty. All activities will be planned with a pre-determined quota in mind. If interest and sign-ups fail to reach the quota which I feel is necessary for an effective program, then that activity will be dropped.

A new innovation for the 1964-65 year is that of a trophy system. A group of trophies has been purchased for display in the corridor in the student center. These trophies will not be removed from the cabinet but there will be a name under each trophy to indicate which dorm or individual is in current possession of the trophy. At the end of 1965 spring season a larger All-Athletic trophy will be placed in the cabinet and awarded to the dorm or off-campus team garnering the most number of victories in the various programs.

In addition to the regular big-three sports at the seminary, this year will also feature volleyball, ping pong, chess, squash and bridge tournaments. An evening program of volleyball, badminton and exercises for the women will be provided one night a week by my wife if the interest warrants. The bowling league will be re-activated and general seminary activities such as skiing, skating parties and splash parties are in the plans for the coming year.

Please watch for sign-up sheets in Stuart Hall and in the Campus Center for the entire athletic program will be based upon the interest expressed on these sheets. I am looking forward to a good year. If you have any suggestions please let me know.

The Wineskin

Dr. Johannes Munck Here For Fall Term

Johannes Munck, Lutheran theologian who is Professor of New Testament at the University of Aarthus, Denmark, is the Visiting Professor of New Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary this fall, President McCord has announced.

The author of works published in English, German and French is addition to his native Danish, Munck will serve one semester on the Princeton faculty.

Receiving his Doctoral Degree from the University of Copenhagen in 1933, Munck spent five years as an assistant and private lecturer at that university, before accepting the Aarthus New Testament post. His earlier studies include periods of residence at the Free Protestant Faculty of Theology in Paris, and at the Universities of Berlin and Bonn.

In 1934, the Danish theologian was a member of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, and in that same year, served as Vice-Chancellor of his University. Besides his professional responsibilities, he is Editor of Studia Theologica and co-editor of Dansk Theologisk Tideskrift.

Professor Munck's studies have ranged over the entire period between Alexander the Great and Augustine, with concentration in the New Testament field. English translations of his major works include Paul and the Salvation of Mankind and Christ and Israel.

Elections

A meeting of the Junior Class is hereby announced for the purpose of electing a Junior Class President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 13, at 1:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. The elected President also becomes a member of Student Council. All Juniors are urged to attend this important meeting which is to be chaired by Gene Augustine, Vice-President of Student Council.

Miss. Clergy Organize To Rebuild Churches

An inter-racial group of 23 Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish clergymen in Mississippi have formed a "Committee of Concern" to help rebuild burned and dynamited Negro churches in that state.

With the aim of making it possible "for men, women, and children of goodwill to respond to violence, hatred, and destruction with concern, compassion, and construction," these churchmen are initiating "a united effort for concrete and personal action in response to the physical losses and personal injustices and indignities suffered by Negro congregations whose buildings have been set fire by unknown arsonists."

In a brochure sent out by the "Committee of Concern," the clergymen state: "We feel that these attacks are attacks on all houses of worship, on religion itself, indeed upon our Constitutional guarantee to assemble and worship. We accept the losses and suffering as our own."

The committee will accept materials, labor, equipment, and financial aid for the churches which have been damaged or destroyed. It is estimated that from $100,000 to $300,000 will be needed in money alone to restore the loss which 33 congregations have suffered.

Members of the Princeton Seminary community are urged to mail their contributions to: COMMITTEE OF CONCERN, P. O. Box 530, Jackson, Mississippi, 39202.

Library Inspections

The inspection of books and briefcases at the exit from Speer Library is designed to assist the staff in keeping accurate records of books charged out, and to prevent errors that might inconvenience the users of the library. Since this is a normal procedure widely used to improve library services, the co-operation of students and visitors is invited. If the attendants at the desk are busy when you pass the loan desk, please wait until the staff has time to check your books and briefcases.

Dr. J. Christiaan Beker Joins New Testament Faculty

"I am interested to see how a theological community can operate in so rustic and beautiful a setting. Is such an atmosphere of retreat and aid or impediment to theological education?" This is one of several impressions which Princeton Seminary has made on Johan Christiaan Beker, a visiting Professor in New Testament at the Seminary this year.

Student enthusiasm for Professor Beker is matched only by his enthusiam for his work. In just the few weeks since school opened he has become a warm and familiar person to all of us. "I feel a genuine openness here," he commented, "and not the stuffy denominationalism I might have expected. I have the privacy necessary for study and preparation and yet I already feel very much a part of this community."

Dr. Beker received his B.D. at the University of Utrecht in 1948 before coming to this country to study. In 1955 he received the Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago. He has been on the faculties of the University of Chicago, Union Theological Seminary and comes to us from the Pacific School of Religion where he has been an Associate Professor of New Testament Theology since 1959.

The Dutch theologian has written The Church Faces the World—Late New Testament Books, and has contributed to the Interpreter's Dictionary and Hasting's Dictionary.

Professor Beker's impressions of Princeton are incisive. He is concerned about the fact that the seminary is nestled so snugly in a one-class community. He notes the academic advantage of being removed from other pressures but wonders whether if in the process we don't lose touch with the humanity that we are to serve. If we don't fight crowds on a subway or pass beggars on the street, can our theological study have any sensitivity? He is quick

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Doug Loving:
Church and Society Committee

"It is so easy for those in education to avoid action," says Doug Loving, Chairman of the Church and Society Committee. And such is the purpose of this facet of Student Council. It seeks to provide a link between the issues of society and the Seminary student. As a part of the world and its torments, the Seminary community must be confronted with the social crises of today. "The Committee exists," says Doug Loving, "to present issues to the students in a way that will demand their thoughts as Christians and subsequent active involvement."

The Committee's program includes organized projects such as the blood drive, headed by Dave Danner, the clothing drive for Church World Service, directed by Roger Quilland, and the Princeton Tutorial Program, led by Richard Sundeen. In addition, outside speakers have been invited to stimulate student concern. David Lilienthal (ethical issues in international affairs), James Baldwin, and James Reston of the N. Y. Times are among the speakers who will present certain critical issues to the student body. Small discussion groups are also planned as a step toward realistic involvement.

Such issues and concerns as "What's next in Race?", prayer and Bible reading in schools, international affairs, and basic theological issues in regard to today's emotional election campaign will be analyzed.

"We hope to realize the essential nature of dealing with social problems in the context of Christianity, not just humanitarianism." Christ was involved in the center of social turmoil. And the Christian church and the Christian individual of today should have no immunity from social issues.

Serving with Doug Loving are Steve Richardson, Vice-Chairman, Gil Horn, Secretary, Russ Burck, representing the Princeton Association for Human Rights, and Dave and Ted Wills who direct the political wing of the program. Dr. James H. Nichols is the faculty advisor.

The interests and channels indicated here are for student benefit. "These ongoing concerns spring out of our conviction that, as Christians, we have a definite obligation to the society and world of which we are a part."

Employment Opportunities

The Student Employment Office under the direction of Bill Sheppard has opportunities in part-time employment for students and full time or part-time employment for wives. Please check the bulletin boards and stop by the Student Employment Office, 109 Hodge Hall. There are also many opportunities to babysit. In the past this has been a good source of income for Seminary students. If you would be interested in having your name placed on the babysitting list, please sign one of the lists posted on campus or leave your name, telephone number and times you would be willing to babysit at the Employment office, 109 Hodge Hall. Employment office hours are: Monday, 1:00-2:15; Tuesday, 12:30-1:30 and 5:00-5:45; Wednesday, 4:00-5:30; Thursday, 12:30-1:30 and 5:00-5:45; Friday, 4:10-5:30.

We express our prayerful sympathy to John S. McKenzie, Jr. and his family at the passing of Jay's father. The funeral services were held at Baron Funeral Home in Abington, Pennsylvania last Thursday.

Contribute to Dimension

DIMENSION, Princeton Seminary's student theological journal, has announced that it is accepting original articles by members of the Seminary student body to be published in its forthcoming issue. Now in its second year, DIMENSION offers a forum for the creative theological thought which is going on in our community. Those students who wish to express their ideas through the medium of this journal are requested to contact Clayton Carlson, 123 Brown Hall, as soon as possible. The deadline date for copy to be submitted to the editors will be November 25. The journal will also consider original poetry and art work.

Seminary Blood Donor Service

We wouldn't ordinarily look around here for records to be set, but there is one of which we can be proud, and of which we should be aware. Princeton Seminary has become an important part of the Red Cross Blood donor service in Princeton, furnishing over 100 pts. each of the last two years. Last year the total was maintained with only 40 donors joining the program. If we are to continue to do our part, not so much in answer to a cheer as to a prayer, we will need many more donors this year. We are committed, but, of course, not just to a program.

The Red Cross will hold a typing session which may be attended anytime on October 15, Thursday, from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m. Believe me—we need your type. . . .

Summer Jobs Available In Europe

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg—The American Student Information Service, with headquarters in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, is now accepting applications from students who wish to work in Europe next summer. The ASIS can place students in temporary summer work in Great Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Finland, Norway, Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, Austria, Israel and Liechtenstein.

15,000 Openings

ASIS has 15,000 job openings within categories that include resort hotel work, office work, factory work, hospital work, child care work, ship work, construction work, farm work, sales work, and camp counseling work. Wages range to $400 a month for the highest paying positions in West Germany and the working conditions and hours are exactly the same as those of the Europeans with whom the students work. In most cases room and board are provided free but if not, the student worker lives independently in the city where he is working. In any case living accommodations are prearranged.

Orientation In Europe

Every student placed in a summer job in Europe attends a 5-day orientation period in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg that includes cultural orientation tours to Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, blackboard sessions, on the scene language practice, and lectures given by European university professors. Although there is usually no foreign language requirement for the jobs, students are given the opportunity to experience native European situations during the orientation period. Blackboard sessions and talks cover such subjects as how to save money while in Europe, low cost transportation, shopping discounts and inexpensive living accommodations. ASIS claims that this do-it-yourself, on the scene method of preparation is the only way to adjust rapidly to the European way of life.

The ASIS, a non-profit organization in its eighth year of operation, also supplies job applicants, at no extra cost, with a complete set of language records of the language of the country in which the applicant will be working, a student pass allowing the bearer student discounts throughout Europe, complete health and accident insurance while in Europe, and a comprehensive information service about living and traveling in Europe.

Travel Grants To $1,000

The ASIS also offers travel grants that greatly reduce the cost of the summer in Europe. These grants can range as high as $1,000 depending upon individual circumstances. Student applicants are also free to make their own travel arrangements to and from Europe. ASIS expects that a great many students participating in the charter flights sponsored by their school will want a summer job in Europe.

Students interested in summer work in Europe should write to Dept. I, American Student Information Service, 22 Avenue de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, for the ASIS 36-page booklet which includes a complete listing and descriptions, with photographs, of jobs available and job and travel grant applications. Send $2 for the booklet which will be returned by air mail.

to add that this is a question he is asking and not a judgment.

Dr. Beker commented further on the openness and freedom he finds here. He senses a genuine enthusiasm for learning and inquiry amid an atmosphere of relaxation and true commentary. Yet he seemed surprised at the lack of faculty-student contact in the refractory. He has found at the other schools he has served, that this was a main function of the lunch hour. He added that such contact is, in his mind, essential to a total education. He underscored the idea of "theological education in its totality." If this is to be achieved "faculty-student contacts are crucial." Certainly Prof. Beker offers the openness and receptivity he speaks of.

Dr. Beker commented on the relationship of the seminary to the university. He senses that it seems little more than cordial. He pointed out that seminaries that are not located near universities usually strain to establish a relationship with one; yet the proximity to the university seems a wasted potentiality here.

Prof. Beker concluded with the thought that perhaps today the word we need to underscore more boldly in our vocabularly in honesty. We have so sentimentalized our concept of love that we have squeezed the honesty out of it. And love without honesty is empty. It is a spirit of honesty that allows us to be truly open to an education that can reach a person in his totality. The presence of Dr. Beker this year will add a lot to that spirit.

Serendipity Singers, Shearing Quintet At McCarter Theatre

McCarter Theatre will "batten down its hatches" for the second in its Fall series of "Midnight Specials" on Friday, October 16, when it welcomes the Ford Caravan of Music, comprising both the Serendipity Singers and the George Shearing Quintet.

The evening will mark the initial Princeton visit by the Serendipitys, one of the largest of the folk ensembles with seven men and two women. The group achieved best-seller status last Spring with its recording of "Crooked Little Man" ("Don't Let the Rain Come Down"). George Shearing is no stranger to Princeton audiences, although he last appeared on the campus in 1960. The blind pianist-arranger has been in the front rank of jazz artists since 1949, and his Quintet has shared the top spot in the nations leading music polls with the Dave Brubeck Quartet for many years.

Tickets for the Caravan are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

Dr. West To Speak

Dr. Charles West will speak to students on Wednesday, October 14, at a luncheon in the small dining room in the Campus Center. This past summer he was a delegate to the Second All-Christian Peace Assembly, which met in Prague, Czechoslovakia from June 28 to July 3 in order to discuss Christian answers to the problem of peace in our present world order. The Assembly included, besides representatives from all of the Eastern European countries and most of the churches in those countries, a large group of delegates from Western Europe and North America. Asian, African and Australian churches were also represented.

Dr. West's topic will be "Christians, World Peace, and the East-West Encounter." Interested students are invited to sign the list which will be posted in the Campus Center foyer.

Harvest Hoedown

Come to the "Harvest Hoedown" for square dancing, folk singing, cider and donuts. The fun will take place Friday, October 16 at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium of the Campus Center. Admission will be 75¢ per couple.

Bush League

It has been rumored in both sport and literary circles that this will be a regular column in the campus newspaper, "The Pigskin."

I will endeavor to report all campus sports events after they have occurred and I will also keep you posted on what to look for on the athletic calendar.

I would like to repeat one point at this time. As events and tournaments are scheduled they will be announced in this column and then sign up sheets will be placed in the foyer of Stuart Hall. If there is insufficient interest according to the sign-up sheets the program will be dropped.

The women of the seminary received a memo from me concerning the Tuesday evening sports night. Let's get those replies phoned in to my wife, girls, so that she can start to arrange a program.

The touch football league will begin this week and all the teams seem to be in good shape after the long hot summer. Pre-season predictions seem a little shaky as there have been some key trades and shifts in talent over the past year. However, Hodge appears to be a likely bet to be a front runner in the league, if they are able to keep up the momentum from last year. While the Princeton University Grad school divides its talent, it is a fairly reasonable guess that these gentlemen should muster enough gridiron prowess to cop a second place.

Brown recruited Y. A. Reutter back from New York for a good price and key draft choices to Alex. and this should make the difference for a clear choice as a first division club.

The men from Alexander have a lot of new talent from the minor leagues (Oklahoma, U.C.L.A., Texas Christian, etc.) and I feel will be a bigger threat this fall and should finish about the middle of the league.

The age of the Senior-Grad off campus team is definitely a disadvantage and it appears that it needs some new talent. However, with a slimmer "Sam" Doering at line backer and some new recruits via the trades with both the Middler class of last year and the "newly weds" this team will be forced to enjoy the role of spoiler for the top teams. The combination of being new at commuting to the games plus those who are newly-weds cause too big a handicap for the Junior-Middler team and I foresee them as the cellar team for 1964.

This is the way the Gridiron action shapes up for the fall.

The bowling league for all campus members (faculty, administration, wives, etc.) will be starting at the end of this month if interest warrants. Please indicate your interest by signing the appropriate sign-up sheet in the foyer of Stuart Hall. This year the league will be held at the Prince Bowling Lanes on U. S. Highway #1. Also you might start thinking about the fall hand-ball and squash tournaments which will get underway in about two weeks.

Until next week—that's all sports fans —and remember the Phillies fans in your evening devotions.

A Message of Interest

A number of Princeton Seminary students, graduate and B.D., worked for a week this summer in Atlantic City, assisting the local chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. in a project of voter registration. Out of their participation there they have felt a need to continue the discussion of and involvement in issues of Christian social concern such as civil rights, immigration laws, Christian responsibility in foreign affairs and other issues both domestic and international.

To focus this concern and to make plans for action, they have decided to call a first meeting of all interested students and faculty members this Friday, October 9, at 4:30 p.m. in Stephenson Lounge of the Campus Center.

They need your interest, concern, and suggestions in these various areas which, they believe, can be of central importance in our preparation to serve the Church in congregation and college. They hope you will join them.

Charles P. Robshaw To Preach At Extended Chapel Service

The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Robshaw, minister of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, will be the preacher of the first extended chapel service of the year on Wednesday, according to Dr. Donald Macleod, professor of Homiletics. Dr. Robshaw was born in Dublin, Ireland and is a graduate of Trinity College of the University of Dublin, with the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Commerce. He holds the degrees of Bachelor of Theology (Princeton, 1942), Master of Theology (Princeton, 1944), and Doctor of Sacred Theology (Temple, 1950). Dr. Robert W. Spike To Be Missions Lecturer

The Rev. Dr. Robert W. Spike, Executive Director of the National Council of Churches emergency Commission on Religion and Race, will be the speaker for the annual Students' Lectureship on Missions next Monday and Tuesday. The lectures will be given in Miller Chapel at 7:45 p.m. on Monday and at 1:30 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday.

The 32-member Commission was created in June, 1963, to enlist the full weight of the nation's Protestant and Orthodox churches in the struggle for racial justice. It was authorized to call for demonstrations in "every major city in the United States," to be organized by local councils of churches, church women, and church men, in order to "witness to our determination that the church shall be fully involved in a continuing effort to change the segregated pattern of American Life."

Dr. Spike was general secretary for program for the Board of Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ. He was an organizing staff member of the new Commission on Religion and Race from the earliest stage of its formation.

A pioneer in relating Christianity to mid-twentieth century culture and society, Dr. Spike has been active in the National Council of Churches for a number of years. He serves on the executive committee of its Division of Home Missions and is chairman of the Committee On A Christian Ministry in the National Parks. He was also a member of the special committee on the role of religion in the mass media.

As executive director of the Commission on Religion and Race, Dr. Spike gives full-time staff leadership in the first phases of the Commission's operation. Established by Council president J. Irwin Miller by unanimous action of the General Board, the Commission is designed to mobilize the resources of all units of the National Council and its member denominations in a planned strategy against all forms of racial injustice in American life.

Dr. Spike was born November 13, 1923, in Buffalo, New York. He is a graduate of Denison University, Granville, Ohio, and Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, New York. He received a doctorate in education from Columbia University in conjunction with Union Theological Seminary.

Dr. Robert W. Spike

From 1949 to 1956, Dr. Spike was minister of Judson Memorial Church (Baptist-Congregational Christian) on Washington Square in New York City.

During his student years he preached in rural Ohio churches, served as minister of the Glendale Baptist Church, Queens, New York, and was director of the Youth Service Committee of the American Baptist Convention. He was associate minister of the First Baptist Church, Granville, Ohio, from 1946 to 1948.

Dr. Spike is the author of Safe in Bondage, an appraisal of the Church's mission to America, and of To Be a Man, as well as of numerous articles in religious and secular periodicals. He is a frequent preacher at Dartmouth, Bowdoin, Carleton, and other colleges.

The Student Lectureship on Missions was established in 1893 largely through the efforts of seminary undergraduates. It is designed to introduce the whole seminary community to the world mission of the church.

Bush League

While the Cardinals and the Yankees were kocking heads in St. Louis, the Junior Mids and Hodge kicked off the 1964 football season at Mercer field. The defending champs lead by hard charging middle guard, Gil Horn (6' 6"-285 lbs.) had trouble mustering an attack before an all new Junior-Mid team. The sharp passes of John Alsup and the heads up play of what appears to be one of the finer lines in the league brought home a 12-0 victory. At the night cap of the twin bill, the Alexander machine rolled over Brown also by a score of 12-0. Loren Stenberg scored both TD's, the second a crowd thriller with only seconds remaining in the game. Al Reutter paced the hapless Brownies but was unable to push the ball over for a score.

Meanwhile, over at the Grad school the two entries from the "secular world" were battling amongst themselves and the A. team came out on the long end of the score.

BULLETIN: I have been served notice that the flyer concerning the women's athletic evening at the gym did not get into the hands of all the seminary women. Anyone who is interested in spending an hour or so a week playing volleyball, badminton, exercise, or folk dancing please call my wife, Helle at 359-6188.

BOWLING: An all seminary bowling league will be formed as soon as there the 20 signatures on the sign up sheet in Stuart Hall. Anyone may join the league.

The Seminary Gym

The Seminary Gymnasium, located at the corner of Stockton Street and Hibben Road just west of Tennent Hall, is available to all members of the Seminary community and their families between the hours of 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. Use of the gymnasium facilities by other groups must be authorized by the Office of the Treasurer and approved by the Athletic Director. During certain periods of the year The Hun School contracts for the use of the gymnasium at scheduled hours, and their program will have priority at those times.

On Sunday the gymasium is padlocked, and is not available for use except by arrangement with the Office of the Treasurer or the Athletic Director. Those members of the Seminary community who desire to use the gymnasium over the weekend should contact the Director or the Treasurer's Office by Friday noon in order to receive a weekend key.

During the week, keys are available in each dormitory and campus residence hall. A key is also kept in the Office of the Treasurer or at the switchboard, where it may be signed out. The key will provide access to all gym facilities during the week, and to everything except basketball, volleyball, and badminton on Sunday.

The person taking a key becomes responsibile for the gymnasium. That person must see that no unauthorized individuals or groups enter the gymnasium, and must protect the gymnasium and its equipment from misuse. The gymnasium is never to be left unlocked, even when authorized personnel are using the facilities. The doors are to remain closed at all times, and gymnasium users are reminded that other members of the seminary community have their apartments in the gym—please avoid loud noise in the entrance hall.

The following regulations have been established by the student government.

1. All persons must be out of the gym by 11 p.m.

2. Only sneakers or tennis shoes are permitted on the basketball court.

3. All lights must be turned off upon departure.

4. Showers must be turned off.

5. Doors must be locked upon leaving the gym.

6. The locker room must be left in good order.

7. If unauthorized persons or groups refuse to leave upon request, Mr. Thomas Brian or the Seminary Treasurer must be notified. They will contact police.

Dr. Robshaw is a member of the American Academy of Social and Political Science and of Kiwanis International. He is President of the Board of Directors of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, and a member of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. In the latter part of 1963, together with a group of members and staff of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations, Dr. Robshaw spent six weeks in India and Pakistan, conferring with local clergy and fraternal workers on the problems of the Church in these countries. Dr. Robshaw is currently serving as Vice-Chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations and also as a member of the East Liberty Citizens' Renewal Council of ACTION Housing. He is active in the Gaelic Arts Society of Pittsburg, of which he is a Director.

In the spring of 1961, Dr. Robshaw visited India, at the invitation of the United Church of India. He spoke to Synod meetings and pastors' conferences in that country, and preached at services in India and in Thailand.

A collection of Dr. Robshaw's sermons, entitled "The Wisdom That Does Not Change," was published by Abingdon Press in 1962.

Dr. Jurji To Head Gallahue Conference

Princeton, N. J., October 12—The first of a new series of conferences designed to bring together leading spokesmen and scholars from the world's great religions was announced today by Princeton Seminary President James I. McCord.

The initial conference, which will involve representatives from major U. S. religions, will open on the Princeton Seminary campus on October 27.

Under the direction of Edward J. Jurji, Professor of the History of Religions at Princeton Seminary, the opening conference will include Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, and Humanist scholars. The theme will be "The Phenomenon of Convergence and the Course of Prejudice."

"The purpose of the dialogue is an attempt to discover new areas of understanding, cooperation and good will, not to unify the religions nor to make religion a secular subject," Dr. Jurji said.

The conference will be kwown as the Edward F. Gallahue World Religions Conference, after the Indianapolis, Ind., Christian layman and business leader who is sponsoring the series.

Professor Jurji has already initiated the planning of subsequent conferences in the series. Future sessions will reach beyond the U. S. to involve religions other than the Judaeo-Christian and Western Humanist traditions.

"Findings of this first conference of its kind will inevitably pave the way for a second event in 1965 which will take the form of a forum of world faiths," Dr. Jurji said. "America's pluralist society—despite obvious shortcomings—may well serve as a preliminary model in mankind's quest for unity in diversity."

Open Lectures

The evening lectures by Dr. Ferre and Dr. Northrop will be open to the entire seminary community.

Lecturers for the October 27-29 conference include Dr. A. William Loos, resident of the Council of Religion and International Affairs; Dr. George W. Allport, Harvard psychologist; Professor Abraham Joshua Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America; Professor Joseph M. Kitagawa of the University of Chicago; and Professor Bernard Cooke, S.J., of Marquette University.

Dr. Loos will begin the lectures at 2 p.m., October 27, by speaking on "The Nature of Convergence." At 8 p.m., on October 27, Nels F. S. Ferre, of Andover Newton Theological School will lecture on "Religion and the One World Idea."

On October 28, at 9 a.m., Dr. Allport will speak on "The Religious Context of Prejudice." At 2 p.m. Professor Heschel will lecture on "The Humanity of Man." Then, at 8 p.m., Dr. Filmar S. C. Northrop will speak on "The World's Religions at Mid-Century." Dr. Northrop is from the Yale University Law School.

Opening the final day of the conference, Dr. Kitagawa will speak at 9 a.m. on "Convergence and Prejudice in the U. S." The final session at 2 p.m. will feature Father Cooke, whose subject will be "Responsibility of the Religious Communities in the U. S."

According to Dr. Jurji, each lecture will establish an area for discussion to follow, and a chairman and commentators, drawn from 37 participants in the conference, will initiate the dialogue.

The two evening lectures by Nels F. S. Ferre and Filmer S. C. Northrop will be open to the public. They are scheduled in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Dr. Jurji continued: "It is in itself revealing that these exploratory undertakings are currently initiated by such a divinity school as Princeton, set at the heart of Protestant Christianity. If communication and interchange of ideas on a high academic level can be established in this country among scholars of Christianity, Judaism, and Humanism, what will prevent extension of this pattern abroad? Surely one may entertain the hope that such dialogue in the West may eventually embrace the scholars of Islam, Hinduism, Buddhism and other cultures of the East as well."

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Ted Scott

The presence of a large number of international students on the Seminary's campus is a compelling illustration of the ecumenical nature of the Body of Christ. And it is the Ecumenical Fellowship Committee, led by Ted Scott, which seeks to bring this universality of the Christian church before the student body.

"The Committee began as a fellowship group in the 1950's," says Ted Scott. "Since then, its purpose has become an educational one." The Committee is, therefore, dedicated to increased student understanding of the ecumenical field. It hopes to accomplish this by bringing to campus those speakers involved in the ecumenical church. There will be no restrictions of faith or boundaries of topic regarding these speakers. Thus, the widely varying nature of this fall's program offers to the Seminary community, true insight into the universal church.

In the past, the Ecumenical Fellowship Committee has been predominantly concerned with the mission outside the church. However, the question this year is, "What's going on within the church?" Across the ecumenical field, there are new forms and patterns of church life which cross old patterns. Where are we in this confrontation?

A sampling of the speakers on this fall's program includes: Dr. J. I. McCord and Rev. Walter Wagoner, discussing the significance of last August's World Presbyterian Alliance conference in Frankfurt am Main, Germany; October 29, Dean E. G. Homrighausen, speaking about his recent Asian trip and discussions with church leaders in Korea, Japan, and Southeast Asia; November 12, and talks with theological students from Maryknoll Seminary and from General Seminary in New York. "In addition," says Ted Scott, "We hope to have the international students speak concerning their own home church situations."

Another facet of the Ecumenical Fellowship Committee includes employment opportunities. The Committee hopes to invite personnel from the Committee of Ecumenical Relations in New York to the Seminary to interview students this spring. This is done both for increased awareness and for employment possibilities.

Serving with Ted Scott on this committee are Ernie Freund, Ellie Clever, Ken Dupar, Peter Butler, and Genevieve Metz. Dr. E. D. Willis is the faculty advisor.

In the opening convocation of this year, President J. I. McCord expressed his interest and concern in the ecumenical mission. "The Ecumenical Fellowship Committee hopes to continue this interest and concern by informing the student body of the events in the ecumenical Body of Christ which determines our mission."

Wilson Fellowship Applications

Students who wish to enter the teaching profession, and would like to apply for a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship should see the Dean promptly. Applicants must be nominated. Please study the notices posted in the Campus Center and in Stuart Hall. If successful, a Woodrow Wilson Fellow is the recipient of a generous grant for his first year of graduate study.

Dr. McCord and Mr. Wagoner To Speak on Frankfurt

President James I. McCord and the Rev. Walter Wagoner will meet with students to discuss the ecumenical significance of the 19th General Council of the World Presbyterian Alliance, which was held August 3-13, 1964, at Frankfurt am Main, Germany. The meeting will be in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center, at 7:15 p.m. on Thursday, October 29.

Both Dr. McCord and Mr. Wagoner are well experienced in ecumenical matters. Dr. McCord has been involved in many high-level conferences during recent years. Prior to the Frankfurt General Council this year, he was Chairman of the Consultation on Church Union, which met in Princeton last spring. Mr. Wagoner, who since 1955 has been Executive Director of the Rockefeller Fund for Theological Education, is a member of the U. S. Conference for the World Council of Churches. In this and other capacities he has participated in numerous ecumenical discussions of import, the most recent being the Frankfurt meeting. As a result of such participation, he has contributed articles to several periodicals, among them Christian Century, Religion in Life, and Theology Today.

Mr. Wagoner has spent much time working with students. Prior to assuming directorship of the Rockefeller Fund, he was a university chaplain and taught at Colby College and Northwestern University. Since 1955, he has been heavily involved with seminaries and seminarians. His experience in this field has led to the publication of a book entitled Bachelor of Divinity, in addition to several articles. He is himself a minister of the United Church of Christ.

Dr. McCord and Mr. Wagoner will combine their experience on October 29 in order to analyze the nature of the World Presbyterian Alliance, its past and present participation in the world ecumenical movement, and its achievements at Frankfurt. From the perspective of the Frankfurt gathering, they will discuss the method and the spirit of contemporary ecumenicity in the light of the present difficulties of the ecumenical movement among Protestants. In a question-and-answer period to follow the discussion, they will seek to answer individual student interests and concerns about Frankfurt and the Presbyterian Alliance.

Dr. Hammond Digs at Hebron

Dr. Philip C. Hammond Initiates Archeological Dig At Hebron

American Expedition First To Dig At Historic City

Ancient Hebron, burial place of the Biblical patriarch Abraham, first capital city of King David, and one of the last untouched major archeological sites of the Holy Land, has begun to yield its secrets to the probing of a team of modern scholars led by Princeton's Dr. Philip C. Hammond, Jr.

Hebron is now known as El-Khalil which means "The Friend," referring to Abraham who was the "friend of God." But even in Jordan these people of the community had been known as anything but friendly. They took their religious history and their Islamic orthodoxy with great seriousness. Yet the Expedition and Dr. Hammond were able to break down the walls of distrust when they proved to be as interested in Islamic as in Christian remains, and completely disinterested in interfering with traditional Moslem holy places. "Expedition members were stopped in the streets by people who wanted to report ruins in their gardens, antiquities found in fields, or tomb locations passed down from father's fathers. The American party was beseiged by invitations to tea, to family parties, to social events, or for just plain conversation," writes Dr. Hammond.

The Expedition completed the initial stratigraphic charting of the site, and uncovered important artifacts and archeological remains from every period of the ancient city's history of occupation. From a magnificent Islamic house to a complete bowl from the Chalcolithic period more than 5,000 years ago, each "find" added to the existing knowledge of Hebron itself, and of the entire ancient Mediterranean world.

The shovels of the Jordanian laborers and the careful trowels of the professional staff and their students didn't bring these ancient remnants to light in neat, chronological order. Nature isn't that kind to old civilizations, and later settlers are even more brutal. It takes trained skill to relate the fragments of time to the wholeness of history.

Using the progress of last summer as a base, Professor Hammond expects to continue the exploration of ancient Hebron, perhaps for as long as the next eight years. An interim project which is scheduled for 1965 will map later, more extensive explorations of such things as a series of deep underground passages which may connect various sections of the site excavated this summer.

The excavations of this summer have been filled in and returned to cultivation. The ancient soil has revealed its secrets, but now comes the long months of detailed evaluation as experts relate the finds to one another and to the already-known history of the area.

Inter-Seminary Meeting Now Inter-Communion

Six Princeton seminarians responded to an invitation from Roman Catholics and Anglicans for the school year's first interseminary meeting and discussion at General Episcopal Seminary in New York, Saturday, October 9. In addition to the students from General and Princeton there was a considerable number from the Maryknoll Roman Catholic Missionary Seminary near Ossining, New York, making the first time seminarians from the three schools have met together.

The meeting was an informal opportunity for becoming acquainted and discussing areas of common concern. In small groups the students talked over such topics as curricula and syllabi, liturgics, and the common problems of modern Christian witness, before adjourning for Evensong in the seminary chapel. The talks resumed after dinner and lasted well into the evening, stirring a general interest for another meeting in November.

A group of Princeton students have shown interest in continuing a program of this kind through the year, meeting perhaps monthly at the various schools for worship and a continuous series of discussions on specific topics. It would not, of course, be the aim of such gatherings to confine discussions merely to matters of common agreement, though it would be hoped that significant differences could be approached on the basis of fundamental agreements. Much of the value of such meetings is in coming to know and understand the people involved, thereby gaining a more sensitive appreciation of their Christian tradition and perspective along with considerations for rethinking and reforming our own.

That Roman Catholic and Anglican seminarians have initiated this program through their recent invitation demonstrates their eagerness for this kind of sharing. Princeton students will be notified of these opportunities and are encouraged to attend them as they arise. Interested individuals may contact Ted Scott or Rod Hunter for details.

Harvest Home Dinner At Witherspoon Church

The Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold its Annual Harvest Home Dinner on Thursday, October 29th from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. The Princeton Seminary community is invited to join the local congregation for this affair to be held in the Parish Hall of the church. Cost for adults is $2.00 and children are $1.00. Please contact either Mrs. Leon Allison or Mrs. James Ward at the church for reservations.

Bush League

The smell of burning leaves and the clash of linemen's pads indicate that fall is in full swing at Mercer Field. Most of the pre-season predictions have already gone to the winds as the various clubs are spreading out in the football standings. Last Wednesday (Oct. 14) saw Alex square off against the Senior-Grad team and come up on top 18-6. The lack of experience and a very thin bench hampered the "old men" of the league. Loren Stenberg continued to make his presence felt as he scored one and tossed for two more, it appears that he has a big lead on the first team All-Bush League selections.

A big veteran Princeton Grad "B" squad pushed around the Brownies and finished up on top 37-0. Lewis scored two and Peery once. The sister team, P.U.G.S. "A" failed to show and thus gave the Junior-Mids an easy forfeit victory. The standings in the trophy race at this point show a tie for first place between Alex and Junior-Mid at 2-0; in second with a 1-1 record are both P.U.G.S. teams, and the cellar is shared by Hodge, Sen.-Grads and Brown.

Next Wednesday is the pivot of the season and in many ways it should show the shape of the league during the home stretch. I pick: Jun-Mids over Brown—the Brownies haven't got what it takes to slow up the combination of Alsup and company; P.U.G.S. "B" over Hodge in a good battle but they should take it by two Td's; in an upset choice I see the Sen.-Grads over P.U.G.S. "A"—the sight of victory stirring them on.

Soccer Notes: Captains Dave Connolly and Steve Davis led the soccer team to Rider College and met a tough and well drilled club. The team needs more game experience which is forth coming. The final score was 8-0, Rider. The next game is against Lawrenceville School next Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 4:00 p.m. and anyone interested should contact the captains.

Women's Sports: The women's sports night program was initiated last Tuesday evening. The program will include various athletic activities for women and anyone and everyone in invited to attend. Last week there was an exercise program and badminton. More women are needed to open other team sports such as volleyball. The day is Tuesday and the time is 8 p.m. at the gym.

Bowling: The league will start as soon as there are enough sign-ups on the sheet in Stuart Hall.

Volleyball: Between the football season and basketball season there will be inter-dorm (including off campus and faculty teams) volleyball league. There will be three games an evening and it will start on December 2. This will count as a full sport toward the All-Sport Trophy and a trophy will be awarded to the winning team.

Also, be looking for the First Team All-Bush League selections in football to be announced in the last paper prior to Thanksgiving.

Gym keys are available from the following people:

Alexander Hall, Dale Schlafer, Brown Hall, Al Reuther; Hodge Hall, Warren Lee; 21 Dickenson St., Ken Graham; North Hall, South Hall, Tennent Hall, Payne Hall, Office of the Treasurer, Switchboard Receptionist.

Questions About Chaplaincy

Chaplain Harry C. Wood, Executive Secretary of the Department of Chaplains and Service Personnel will lead Chapel, and make himself available to students who have questions about the Chaplaincy, or their military status, on November 19. He will be available in Room 2 of the Campus Center after Chapel and through the early afternoon.

Friday Nite Flicks To Begin on Oct. 30

On Friday, October 30, at 7:00 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium, "Our Man in Havana" starring Alec Guinness, Maureen O'Hara, Ernie Kovacs, Burl Ives, Noel Coward and Jo Morrow, will be presented as the first of our fall "Friday Nite Flicks."

The film is a spoof of the world of spies and counterspies. Alec Guinness is a timid vacuum cleaner salesman who outwits the British Secret Service when he is practically forced to become a spy for that espionage organization and sells them fabulous (but phony) secrets.

Tickets will be sold in the Campus Center foyer from Oct. 28-30, and at the door preceding the movies. The cost will be $.50 per single admission or $1.25 for all three movies of the first semester. Married couples may purchase a series ticket for all 3 pictures for just $2.00.

The other scheduled "flicks" for the first semester are "Adise and Consent" starring Henry Fonda, Peter Lawford, Franchot Tone, Charles Laughton, Walter Pidgeon to be shown Dec. 4. On Jan. 15 we will have "Bell, Book and Candle" with James Stewart, Kim Novak, Jack Lemon and Ernie Kovacs. Put them on your calendar and plan to attend all three!

Big News!

Seminary Olympics

The big news of the week is the Princeton Seminary Olympics. The first annual Olympics will be held Wednesday evening November 11 starting at 7:00 p.m. Competition will be the Junior Class, Middler Class, Senior Class and the Grad. Students-Faculty and Administration Team. Wives and women seminarians are invited to participate. This is the time to find out which class is really the most physically fit and at the same time to have a really good time. This will be next Wednesday night—if you don't feel up to participating, plan to be at the Gym to support your team.

Bush League

The dust has settled and the football league has taken on some different aspects in its final phases. The PUGS group now field only one team and this team is ineligible for the League Championship.

The game of the week was the Jun-Mid - Brown contest which ended up a lopsided 31-7 score in favor of the powerful Jun-Mid squad. However, they did not achieve this victory until the sturdy Brown Hallers had given them a scare in the first half. The half time score was 12-7 and both TD's for the Jun-Mid team came via heads up defense. In the long run it was the defense that made the difference as Art Ware continually bothered Jim Hendrickson forcing him to either eat the ball or pass poorly. Beside the highly touted Jun-Mid backfield, spear-headed by Gordie Hess and Robin Paulsen, mention should also be made of the strong line centered around Lee Knight.

In the second game of the week, the predictions of the preceding week proved to be 100% correct to date, as Hodge bowed, not so gracefully, to the PUGS. Warren Lee danced away from many would be taggers but was finally overcome 24-7. The boys from on the hill knew they had been in a game as they were being constantly rushed by the fine interior line of Horn and McFerren.

For the week of November 11, I pick, with reluctance, Jun-Mid over the Sen-Grad by a good margin—a huge bench fortifying a strong team. Here is where my perfect record may go out the window, but in a tight contest, I see Alex over Hodge.

Please take note that the Volleyball intramurals start on Monday November 23. This is a new sport on the intramural level and hopes are that the first season will be a success. It is also new, in that, the Faculty-Administration Team (supported by Grad. students) will make its debut in the bush league.

Handball: A fall tournament will be started within the week. Anyone who is interested should either sign up on the sheet in Stuart Hall or phone me. There will be at least two handball tournaments this year.

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Last year there seemed to be an underlying ground swell on campus concerning the individual spiritual needs of seminarians. Aware of this need, the student council has initiated a new committee to deal with the spiritual poverty felt by many. Why was it embarrassing, so to speak, to discuss personal spiritual needs in a theological community? By social necessity, this need had become a hidden issue. We aren't supposed to have such needs. "What, then, does it actually mean to us as seminarians to be a part of the community of Christ?" asks Rick Thyne, Chairman of this committee. Thus, the Christian Faith and Life committee evolved this year in an attempt to meet this need for a more open discussion of personal faith and spiritual needs.

Two concrete projects are in the future. One is to make Lent a more meaningful experience for the seminarian. The second is to bring in an outside pastor to discuss these problems through lectures and a discussion series. The topic will be developed around the problem of having some sort of personal devotional life as a pastor.

As important as these future concrete events are, the function of the commission is a listening, feeling board. As this, the Commission seeks to promote a healthier spiritual atmosphere which will contrast with the feelings and atmosphere which were prevalent last year. "Already an obvious difference can be seen in this year's chapel service attendance," says Rick. The attendance is double that of last year. Rick seems to feel that this is due, in part, to the greater freedom and openess in regard to the students' spiritual temperature this year. "The participation of faculty members in chapel is also beneficial," says Rick, "as students become acquainted with the faculty beyond the classroom level."

The ground swell of restriction was present last year. By consideration of what personal commitment, devotion and prayer mean, the atmosphere is freer. And it is towards this end that Rick Thyne and Blair Moffett lead the Christian Faith and Life Commission into a new year.

Rev. Callender to Speak on "Negro and Today's World"

Much has been said and written in the past months about the present racial crisis in this nation. The Christian Education Commission of the First Presbyterian Church, Trenton, feels, however, that there is still much we need to know about this problem which confronts us all, Christian as well as non-Christian. In order to increase understanding, this commission has invited an excellent speaker to share his knowledge of the situation.

On Sunday evening, November 8 at 8:00 p.m., Reverend Eugene Callender, Negro pastor of the Church of the Master in New York City, will speak about what it means to be a Negro in today's political, economic and social worlds. Reverend Callender has promised a frank approach to this topics and it is hoped that all who have questions along this very personel line will be present and feel free to ask whatever they choose. Reverend Callender will also discuss some of the prominent Negro movements of our time and their ultimate goals.

You are encouraged to attend, and to share your concerns. The meeting will be at the First Presbyterian Church, 120 East State Street, Trenton. Entrance is through the west door.

Seminary To Make Contributions For Burned Out Churches

The Church and Society Committee of the Student Council is undertaking an intensive drive next week for funds to help rebuild burned and dynamited Negro churches in Mississippi. Faculty and students alike will be given an opportunity to contribute.

All proceeds from the drive will be sent to the "Committee of Concern," an inter-racial group of 23 Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish clergymen in Mississippi. This group will distribute the funds, along with donated equipment, to the 38 Negro congregations whose houses of worship have been damaged or destroyed by unknown terrorists.

The significance of the formation of the "Committee of Concern" in Mississippi can hardly be overemphasized. According to the Presbyterian Outlook, never before in the history of the state has such a representative inter-faith group assembled for a common cause. The Church in Mississippi, while generally healthy and vigorous, has for more than a century tended to neglect social problems, especially in the area of race relations. The result has been that religious bodies, through their negligence, have indirectly lended their support to racial prejudice and terrorism.

Donations to the "Committee of Concern" by Princeton Seminary students and faculty will not only aid in rebuilding Negro churches, but will also help cultivate in the state a spirit which vigorously condemns such atrocities.

Off-campus students may place their donations in a box in room 10, Administration Building, from Monday through Frday. On Thusday night, dorm students will be contacted in their rooms and may make their contributions then. Faculty donations should be given to Dr. Lefferts Loetscher, or else placed in his box.

The Editors of WINESKIN wish to express their gratitude and that of the campus community to Doug Loving and the Church and Society Committee for their work with the election campaign. Doug's group was responsible for several articles in VIEWPOINT as well as the campus debate. Their diligence lent maturity and insight to the campus political debate and quickened our sense of involvement and responsibility.

Bush League

The football league is now headed down the homestretch and the basketballers are already talking in terms of their first game. However, the gridders have not yet given up and the trophy for the fall season is still up for grabs. The league leadering Junior-Mids took an afternoon off last Wednesday as Alexander lost a tough 7-0 match against the P.U.G.S. "B". Tony and the dining hall beckoned, costing Alex to lose valuable players. This game put the second place slot into two way tie with both the "B" squad and the Alex crew having a 2-1 record. Hodge backed into its second win taking a forfeit victory from the seemingly defunct P.U.G.S. "A" squad. This gives Hodge an even 1-1 record and "A" boys are down with a 1-2 record.

In the first game of the day Brown and the Sen-Grads battled out a real thriller. This is the first game of the year out of 9 games played in which both teams playing scored. There have been 8 shut-outs and this game. (This is for the statistically minded individuals). The game started with the under-manned Sen-Grad's taking a pushing from the Brownsters. The teams exchanged punts and finally Brown scored first taking a not so commanding 6-0 lead. A few plays later a long Middleton to Davis pass connected for roughly 70 yds. and a big TD. From here on in it was all down hill for the Aging-Commuters. However, they managed to stop each Brown drive short of scoring. The inevitable occurred with only 5 minutes left in the game and the Senior-Grads now down to 5 men.

A determined last drive with the aid of key penalties and the clock gave the Commuters the advantage of two untimed downs after the time had run out and taking advantage of this opportunity, the crafty Joe Middleton found his receivers covered and tallied the seven points himself. Brown showed a strong line pivoted around center Ernie Freund and the combo of Hendrickson to Reutter kept the Sen-Grads in trouble all afternoon.

A note of importance concerning the football schedule. The games will be moved forward due to the end of daylight saving time. The games will be at 2:00 p.m. and 3:30 instead of the old times.

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Ken MacLeod is a reflective person. His quiet manner penetrates issues which others hide by their fervor. He is serving the seminary community in two important posts this year. He discussed his plans recently for the Student Council's Academic Commission and the Theological Society with a restraint that belied the intensity which he felt.

The Academic Commission serves as a liaison between the student body and the faculty and administration on matters related to the seminary's academic program. The commission plans to meet every Friday from 1:30 to 2:00 p.m. Students are welcome to meet with the commission at that time to express concerns about courses, the syllabi, or any other academic matters. Ken and his colleagues, John Stevens of the senior class, middler Doug Sprenkle, and a junior yet to be named, are anxious for their fellow students to share their concerns in this area. The commission also plans to continue the faculty-student luncheons which proved so popular last year.

In both of his roles MacLeod is eager to promote dialogue between students and others who can enrich the process of theological education. The Theological Society plans to bring speakers to the campus representing many positions and perspectives. Two specific subjects were indicated. The first topic mentioned was "the good man," and the second was "prayer." I don't think there is enough good reflection on the subject of prayer," Ken said. "In theology we are often content with mediocrity rather than excellence."

How does MacLeod see the relationship between his two posts? He drew a puff on his ever-present pipe. "One concern with me is the fragmentation of our seminary experience. We tend to have extra-curriculur activities, academics, and worship without too much integration." He went on to say, "I see the theological quest as a part of our immediate student quest—not as an abstract concept." He expressed concern about what he termed "a kind of moratorium on real thinking here." But this has another dimension. "Our personal though about God is a prime motivation for our study. To be good thinkers we need our faith in God and desire for inspiration from God. The intellectual life takes commitment, the desire to know—and it also takes humility."

Ken offered a final observation. "Humility and honesty are two essentials for the theological quest. Without these we are lost." A talk with Ken MacLeod convinces one that the quest will not be lost at Princeton Seminary this year.

Christian Art Featured At Education Reading Room

The Education Reading Room now has on display some original bulletin covers showing the effective use of Christian art in the life of the church. The display of twenty-seven covers comes from Peak Publications in Colorado Springs, Colorado courtesy of Mr. Ted Benson. Symbolism, abstract design, masterpieces in Christian painting and scripture passages are the subjects on the covers. Later displays will feature the work of other publishers. The seminary community is invited to view this exhibit during the regular Reading Room hours.

Dr. Lapsley To Speak On "Psychology of Evangelism"

On November 4, Dr. James Lapsley will speak on the "Psychology of Evangelism." All interested students are invited to hear Dr. Lapsley. The Evangelistic Fellowship is sponsoring this as part of their concern in answering the question, "What is Evangelism?" Dr. Lapsley is the first of a series of speakers who will help unfold the various aspects of the problem.

Sign up in the Campus Center for this event. The dinner will be at 6:00 in the small dining room at which time Dr. Lapsley will speak.

November 3rd— Day of Decision

Tuesday, November 3, is the day—the day of opportunity, of privilege and of responsibility. The Editors of Wineskin urge you to exercise your privilege and to fulfill your responsibility by voting on that day. No candidate is perfect, but our government takes its direction through the choice that you make—and not by the refusal to consider an ambiguous decision. A decision not to vote is not choice; it is escape, escape from responsibility as an American, and as a Christian involved in the world. Fulfill your obligation, and vote.

Wilhelm Pauck Speaks At Graduate College

On Sunday, November 15 at 7:30 p.m. the Reverend Professor Wilhelm Pauck will lecture in the New Common Room of the Graduate College on the topic, "Contemporary Catholicism and the Reformation." Professor Pauck, Professor of Church History at Union Theological Seminary in New York City, will speak under the auspices of the Princeton University Chapel and the Student Christian Association.

Wilhelm Pauck, who is noted as one of the most articulate of Protestant church historians, received his Licentiate in Theology from the University of Berlin in 1925 and his degree of Doctor of Theology from the University of Giessen in 1933. From 1926 to 1953 he served both as professor historical theology and as professor of history in the University of Chicago. Since 1953 he has held the Charles A. Briggs Profesorship of Church History in Union Seminary. His books include Das Reich Gottes auf Erden (1928); Karl Barth—Prophet of a New Christianity? (1931); and Luther's Lectures on Romans (1961).

Lassere To Discuss Christian Pacifism

As additions are steadily made to the Nuclear Weapon Club, the question of the attitude of a Christian toward war becomes more pressing. On Thursday, November 19, at 1:00, Jean Lasserre, of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be the guest of the Church and Society Committee for luncheon in the small dining room. Lasserre is the secretary for the Fellowship of Reconciliation in French-speaking countries. A Reformed pastor in France, he has, in an original way, developed his position as a Christian on war and other contemporary social issues.

As one seminary professor says: "Lasserre's pacifism is no crank's hobby and no confused humanism. . . . Not sentimental revulsion against true horror of Hiroshima or the terror of Algeria, but the word of God in Jesus Christ as mediated by Scripture has driven him to this testimony." Mr. Lasserre will speak on his analysis and views of the international scene as a Christian pacifist. A sign-up sheet will be posted in the campus center foyer.

To the Seminary Community . . .

In the frequent discussions of our life together at Princeton Seminary the question is often raised how far faculty members are aware that they too are part of this community outside as well as inside the classroom, and how they express this awareness. I am writing at the suggestion of Student Council president, Kenneth Ralph, to inform you about the existence and work of the Community Life Committee of the faculty which exists for just this purpose.

The Community Life Committee is responsible for representing the faculty and informing it on all matters pertaining to our common life at the Seminary which are not strictly curricular or academic. It is our task to be acquainted with such problems as the students think are important, with the activities you carry on, and with the difficulties you encounter. Our purpose is to improve relations between faculty and students. but beyond this also to provide a channel through which the faculty can participate with the rest of the Seminary community in expressing through all of our life together our sense of Christian calling and ministry.

We would like the student body to know that each of us is available to discuss any problems of our common concern and any suggestions for improvement of community relations and activities. We are your direct channel to the faculty as a whole. Please feel free to call on us.

Yours sincerely,

The Community Life Committee:

Charles C. West, Chairman; David L. Crawford, James E. Andrews, Donald F. Chatfield, Daniel L. Migliore, William Brower, James E. Loder, Cullen I. K. Story

Bush League

The Bush Leaguers have been putting out all efforts and the football league has been red hot and really close. This week saw Brown, in the role of a heavy underdog, come from behind and take Hodge 13-12. Brown reserved the win as Hodge's two TD's came as a result of a miss play on Browns part and a heads up pass to Warren Lee, which must be placed into the category of good fortune.

Browns line did a fine job of holding out the hard rushing combo of Horn and McFerren and this enabled Jim Hendrickson to get his passes off. This win for Brown put them in the roll of spoilers and pretty much annihilated any hopes the Hodge boys had of being in the running for the championship.

Later in the day, the Alexander team mustered the strength and fortitude to make 7 points stand up for a 7-6 win over the Jun-Mid team. The game was hotly played and the final result indicative of the close contest. This loss by the Jun-Mid team forced them into a tie for first place with Alex.

If neither team loses another game, play-off will be held at a time mutually agreeable to both teams. If such a time cannot be arranged the league will be declared a tie. I am sure that if such a game is to be played it would be one of the better games seen on Mercer Field in many years.

The Volleyball league is about to get off the ground and the hopes are running high that this new adventure in intramural sports will be a success. Rumors are that the faculty team has already been formed and that they will be a team to contend with. There will be some slight alteration in the administration of this program. Due to the unusual amount of interest the Off-Campus team will be divided into two teams. The off-campus juniors and the off-campus Middler-Senior team. It appears that the Juniors have more spunk and interest and therefore warrant a team of their own. I will send out a new schedule of games including this new addition at the beginning of next week. Don't forget the first games will be held on Monday, November 23.

The experiment in an All-Campus sports night is of course over. If the result of the Olympic program held on Tuesday night is encouraging, we will attempt to hold one or two more of these evenings.

The predictions have been on shaky ground due to the two wrong ones last week—but nonetheless I'll give it another stab. It will probably be a week of close games—if the Sen. can muster the energy to get their bones on the field, they should have enough talent to knock off Hodge. The Jun-Mids face the grad team. Both teams have fire in their eyes, the Jun-Mids attemtping to avenge the loss to Alex and also to stay in the running and the Grads smarting from their banishment from the league. I'll go with the Jun-Mids by an 18-6 margin. That's all for now.

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Did you enjoy reading the Times or the Herald Tribune in the Campus Center lounge this morning? Are you a member of the Friday Night Flick Club? Have you ever attended a student reception after an address by a guest lecturer?

Jack Schutte is finding that his post as Social Chairman calls for a variety of talents and a maximum of flexibility. If you answered yes to any of the above questions, then his committee has directly affected your life in the seminary community. The list of activities of the Social Committee is much longer. The special events in the dining hall are planned in conjunction with the food service staff. The coffee and doughnuts which are served during the late evening hours of examination week are provided by the committee. When something special happens on campus, the Social Committee very often has a part.

The whole person is very much in Schutte's thinking and planning. He is concerned that there be meaningful opportunities for students to meet one another on a level that is less rigid than the academic. "If we meet each other in a play situation, it helps eliminate some of the loneliness which we all feel at one time or another." The traditional activities of the chairman and his committee are all aimed in this direction.

A new dimension is apparent in the committee's plans for this year. In addition to sponsoring events on campus, Schutte is making a conscious effort to promote some social contact between students who live on campus, and those who live off-campus. Informal evenings in off-campus homes are being planned as one means of accomplishing this goal. When guests from off campus visit the school, a hopsitality committee including Marcy Mead, Ernie Freund, John Galloway, and Blair Moffett will meet and greet them.

The Social Committee deals in fun, fellowship, and elbow grease. In connection with the good Calvinistic virtue of work, Jack put in a plug for help. "There are lots of places and times when we need a large amount of manpower for a short period of time." Many seminarians have volunteered their services, but for such events as the dining hall parties help is needed. Willing hands are always welcome.

What is Jack Schutte's one hope for what happens this year in the Social Committee? An infectious grin crossed his face. "If we dealt with one area to the exclusion of others, we'd miss the mark," he replied. It is up to the members of the seminary community to help the Social Committee make sure its aim is true.

Hawkins Guest At Lawrenceville Church Anniversary Service

On Sunday, November 22, 1964, the Rev. Dr. Edler G. Hawkins, Moderator of the 176th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will preach at the 11 o'clock service of the Presbyterian Church of Lawrenceville. At a Tea at 4:00 p.m. he will talk to members and friends of the congregation in the Youth Center of the church. The occasion for his presence at the Church is the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the Church Sanctuary.

Dr. Hawkins is the first Negro to be named titular head of a major American denomination. He is a native of New York City who was educated in the public schools of that city and who was graduated from Bloomfield College in New Jersey and Union Theological Seminary in New York. He is minister of the 1,000-member multiracial and multilingual St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in the Bronx.

Organized in 1698, the Presbyterian Church of Lawrenceville first met in a series of wooden buildings until the present brick building was erected in 1764. It has since been expanded to meet the needs of a growing congregation, both times in the 1800's. Not long after it was erected, the sanctuary was used to quarter Hessian troops during the American Revolution. Many figures of colonial history have been a part of the church's life. John Hart, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was baptized in the sanctuary. Mary Ludwin, better known as Capt. Molly Pitcher, was also baptized in the building. Early in the war years, Elias Phillips, a member of the church, organized the townspeople into bands to harass the British troops who used the routes between Princeton and Trenton.

In 1807 the seventh minister founded the Academy of Maidenhead, now the Lawrenceville School, to prepare sons of members for college. Members of the church also started a Sunday School in Rosedale, N. J. which later became the

Dr. Karefa-Smart To Speak At Princeton Second Church

The Second Presbyterian Church of Princeton will hold its November Family Night Supper on Sunday evening, Nov. 22, at 5:30 p.m. The speaker will be Dr. John Karefa-Smart, a member of parliament in Sierra Leone, Africa, a former UN ambassador from that country, and presently Associate Professor in Columbia University's School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine. Dr. Karefa-Smart, a former medical missionary, will speak on "The Role of the Church in Emergent Africa." Supper will be at 5:30; $1.00 for adults and 50c for children under 10. The program will start at 6:30. There will be supervised care of children. Please call in your reservation for supper and/or program to the church office, 924-2174, before 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19.

Dr. Karefa-Smart was involved personally in his country's move toward independence and, having worked closely with the leaders of other African countries in the political field and with the church in the mission field, Dr. Karega-Smart is well qualified to give us a deeper insight into whatever part the Church has played in the progress of these new countries.

Ft. Wayne Organist To Lead Program On December 2

A service of dedication for the new Moller organ in Miller Chapel will be held on December 2. The first recital on the $66,000 instrument will be played that evening by Mr. Jack Ruhl, organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The organ is the gift of the Fort Wayne church in memory of Isabelle McClure Peltier, a member of that congregation. It was built at the Hagerstown, Maryland, factory of M. P. Moller, Inc., and installed in the chapel during the summer months. Dr. David Hugh Jones, Professor of Music, supervised the purchase and installation of the organ for the seminary.

The console includes three manuals and a pedal section and fifty-three stops. An addition to the rear of the chancel was built to house the 2709 pipes. Those who worshiped in Miller Chapel in the early days of the semester were able to see many of the pipes through the open reredos.

The new instrument replaced the old Gottfried organ which was installed when Miller Chapel was moved to its present site in 1933. It occupied six rooms in the rear of the Chapel basement for its pipes and action. That space has now been remodeled and is being used for music and homiletics classrooms.

All members and friends of the seminary community are invited to be present on December 2.

Koinonia Debate Scheduled

On Monday evening, November 30 at 8:00 p.m. in Stevenson Lounge, Koinonia will sponsor a debate between Dr. John Hick, Professor of Christian Philosophy at the Seminary, and Dr. Walter Kaufmann, Professor of Philosophy at the University. Koinonia's Christmas banquet is scheduled for December 9.

PROFILE

The Hand That Feeds You

"The Wineskin" interrupts its Student Council Profile series for this interview with another important campus figure—the Slater Food Service manager.

"Oh, I like them. I got to know them and now I'm attached to them." That's what Tony Aspras, Food Service Manager, thinks of you, the Princeton Seminary student. He even understands when the waiters drop their trays! "I don't get mad. We try to avoid it but it happens; everybody makes mistakes, you know."

Tony Aspras is well-qualified to give the Seminary community the excellent service that he does. He has been in the restaurant business since he was 19 years old, when he had his own business in New York City. He worked in many New York hotels before joining the Slater Food Service in 1951. In 1954 he took a temporary leave to start his own business but returned to Slater in 1955. He was Supervisor Chef of the seminary food service, before assuming the post of manager this year.

Tony likes his work here very much. And as he says about you, "I love them and that's why I try to make things pleasant in the dining hall. I try to find out what they want and then give it to them. I'm ready to hear compliments and complaints." He is very open about situations in the dining hall (peanut butter even entered into the conversation) and feels that ". . . the best way to serve is to be open to suggestions from all around."

Mr. Aspras was born in the Dodecanise Islands of Greece and came to America in 1936. He served in the United States Navy for three years. His family includes two boys, one, 23, and one, 12. The older one attends Community College in Brooklyn, New York.

Truly interested in the feelings of the students, Tony does all he can to give the Seminary the best and the most pleasant service he can. He appreciates the teamwork of the dining hall crew a great deal. "It is the teamwork which really counts," and Tony is pleased with it this year.

And, again for the students, Tony is always willing to have a party. Plans are already set for the Thanksgiving dinner on the 24th of this month. The huge turkeys stuffed with wild rice are only a part of the menu.

When asked how he became interested in the restaurant business, Tony said, "There was nothing else, and I had some friends in it, and so I went into the restaurant business." Thirty years later, he is still in it and likes it very much. And it is for the seminary student that he sits in his office downstairs and pores over menus and charts. Any comments? Give them to Tony. He appreciates them!

Friday Nite Flick

The second of our "Friday Nite Flicks," ADVISE AND CONSENT, will be presented Friday, December 4, 1964 at 7:10 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. The film version of the runaway best-seller that captured the Pulitzer Prize for veteran Washington correspondent Allen Drury, stars, Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton, Walter Pidgeon, Peter Lawford, Gene Tierney and Franchot Tone.

The story deals with bitter personal feuds and political infighting that can reach into highest political offices. Official Washington is thrown into complete turmoil when the seriously ailing President of the United States asks the U. S. Senate to "advise and consent" to the appointment to Secretary of State of a highly controversial figure. This request blasts the dome off the Capitol to bare the behind-the-scenes operation of national politics.

Tickets for the showing will cost $.50 and will be sold at noon in the campus center foyer, Dec. 2, 3, 4. They will also be available at the door preceeding the performance. Those holding series tickets need only present them at the door the night of the showing.

CLINICAL TRAINING INTERVIEWS

On Monday, December 7, Chaplain Kendrick R. Lee will be on campus to interview students for clinical training next summer in health and welfare institutions throughout the country. Applications must be filled out in advance of the interview. Application blanks can be secured from Mr. Lapsley, 14 Campus Center, where the interview schedule is also posted.

Memo From The Dean

Attention Seniors: Deadlines for fellowships and graduate scholarships are imminent. Some deadlines, such as for Woodrow Wilson grants, have already passed. Any seniors anticipating graduate work and needing aid must act promptly. Numerous opportunities are afforded Princeton men through several offices. General questions should be addressed to my office; Dr. Wyckoff handles the Rockefeller and Fulbright grants; Mr. Andrews has information about National Defense Graduate Fellowships. Both the Witherspoon Building in Philadelphia and 475 Riverside in New York have further information. Various other opportunities—such as Rotary Fellowships, Marshall Scholarships, Ecumenical Fellowships, and the like—are also available.

Of special note are the Senior Class Fellowship outlined in the Catalogue on pages 125 to 127. These are competitive based on theses presented in History, Theology, Old Testament or New Testament with an honorarium of $1,000 each. Deadline for announcing intention to compete is December 1 and deadline for submitting the papers is May 1. Further information is available in the office of the Assistant to the President.

All of these opportunities must be pursued promptly by interested seniors.

In the 1870's, Miss Isabella Nassau, a member of the church, became the first woman missionary to leave America for work in Africa. The congregation organized a special group to help support Miss Nassau during her forty-five years in what is now Gabon.

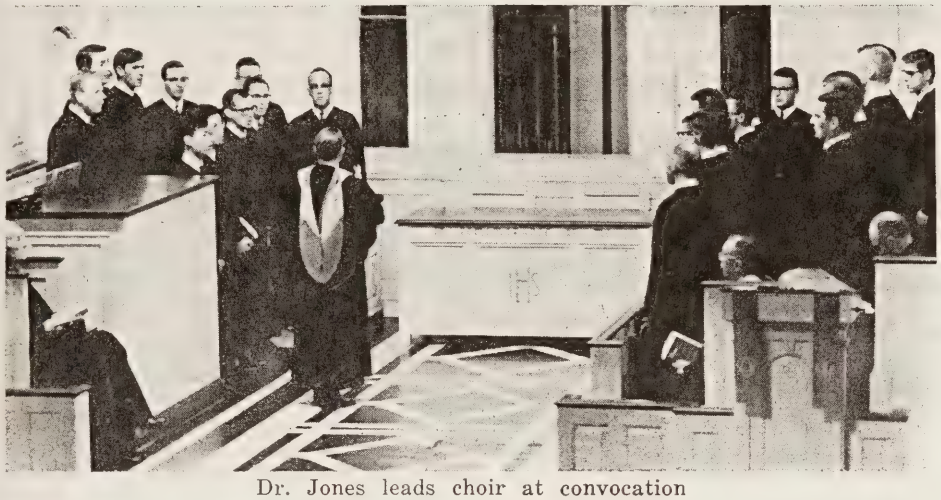
Jones and McKeever Conduct Seminary Choral Music Program



Dr. Jones leads choir at convocation

Musical Heritage Vital to Worship and Fellowship

The installation and dedication of a new organ in Miller Chapel has focused the attention of the Princeton Seminary community on the importance of music in the life of the church and the seminary. The seminary's five choirs use the talents of some one hundred and fifty voices as a different choral group sings in chapel each morning and an oratorio is presented each semester.

Are the statistics surprising? Perhaps the music is taken too much for granted. Yet to many people the seminary is best known through the work of the Touring Male Chorus, which is now in the midst of its thirty-first season. Since 1934, over seven hundred men have traveled into every state of the Union at least twice, every province of Canada, and twenty-one foreign countries. In sacred music and testimony the choir has taken the Gospel "into all the world."

Here on campus, fifty-three members of the seminary community are rehearsing each Monday night in preparation for the performance of Handel's "The Messiah" in December. The Oratorio Choir is the second oldest and the largest of the choirs. It is particularly popular with wives of students.

On Tuesday mornings, a male chorus directed by Mr. James McKeever assists in worship. The Wednesday morning chapel service finds the Recording Choir, composed of former members of the Touring Choir, in the chancel. The Motet Choir, a mixed chorus, sings for Thursday morning chapel and presents a special program in the spring.

Most seminarians know about the choirs, and most know that the man behind the musical life of the seminary is Dr. David Hugh Jones. What may surprise many students is that most of the stories that are told about Dr. Jones are true. Those who have sung in his choirs know that he was born in Ohio, and the number of Welsh tunes in The Hymnbook, which Dr. Jones edited, are a clue to his ancestry. He came to Princeton when the Westminster Choir College moved here in 1929. He is a composer and arranger of note. Washington and Jefferson College and Beaver College have honored him with the degree of Doctor of Music. With a twinkle in his eye, Dr. Jones claims that the initials F.A.G.O. behind his name, which proclaim him a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists, really stands for "formerly a good organist."

Most seminarians do not know about other concerns and purposes of the music program of the seminary. In the first place, the choral program introduces future ministers to the great heritage of musical repertoire which is so much a part of the Christian Church. Congregations around the world are richer for a pastor who is attuned to the place of music in worship and fellowship.

Unknown to many, one of the most faithful choral groups on campus meets every morning after chapel, in the vocal music room. Students who feel that they cannot sing or match a pitch meet with Dr. Jones for special work, and the results are gratifying. Many a congregation now has a minister who is a more effective leader in worship because he participates in the music of the service rather than "sitting the hymns out." Dr. Jones invites any student who is interested in special help to talk with him about his concern and interest in the music program.

The key to music anywhere is par-

Dr. Roland Frye To Give Two Lectures

On Dec. 8 and 9, two lectures on "Theology and Literature" will be given in the course 4155 Theology and the Nature of Man by Dr. Roland M. Frye, Research Professor of the Folger Shakespeare Library, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Frye has served as Associate Professor of English Literature at Emory University, and he was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship to do graduate work at Princeton University in 1959-60, at which time he also took several courses at the Seminary. He is the author of God, Man, and Satan (Princeton University Press, 1960) and Perspective on Man: Literature and the Christian Tradition (Westminster Press, 1961), the latter being the Stone Lectures at the Seminary in 1959.

Dr. Frye will be on campus during the two days of his scheduled lectures and will be available for discussions with students in Stevenson Lounge.

Correct Address?

The mail room of the Seminary has prepared addressograph plates for the entire student body and faculty and these have been tabbed and coded to allow for rapid mailing to many groups on and off the campus. It is important that we have correct addresses. If you are not receiving general mailings which are coming to others on the campus, come to room 16, ask Mrs. Olson to check the address plates and make corrections if necessary.

This is especially important for Seniors who will receive all their placement notices through mailings made by these addressograph plates. Any Seniors who did not receive the pamphlets and questionnaires for placement procedures should visit Room 16 and ask Mr. Byers for another set. These completed questionnaires are due in the office of the Secretary of the Seminary during the week of November 9-13.

Olympic Results

On Wednesday evening, November 11, the first Seminary Olympics was held at the gym. The evening was started with the teams being merged into a Junior-Middler and a Senior-Grad-Faculty team. The contest was nip and tuck until the youngsters finally outlasted the old men by the closest possible 60-50 count. It was largely a contest between the Junior-Mid agility and speed and the Senior-Grad strength and stamina.

After conceding an early ten point lead to the oldpros in a tight volleyball game, the rookies forged out to a thirty to ten lead with successive victories in the free throw contest, the basketball game and the leg wrestling. Art Ware and Warren Lee led the way in these duals.

The Senior-Grads muscled back into contention winning the rooster fight and a tight push-up contest. George Doering outlasted Jim Hendrickson in the latter event and the score was tied again. The decisive events of the evening turned out to be the two relay races—obstacle and baton—which were won handily by the Junior-Mids. They then broadened the lead even further by winning the soft ball throw (accuracy).

The brawn of the Senior-Grads prevailed in the last two contests making the score respectable. Although Jim Hendrickson took all comers and is the official seminary arm-wrestling champ, the oldsters swept all the other weight classes to cop that ten points. The finale of the evening was the tug 'o war. George Doering was tied in at anchor for the Senior-Grads (utilizing his low center of gravity) and they won in no contest.

I am sure that everyone who participated enjoyed themselves and perhaps if interest warrants, another more expanded program can be attempted in the Spring.

Game Results

Well Bush Leaguers Football is over, or is it? This past Wednesday's game plus any necessary play-offs have determined whether this has been an extension of the season.

Looking back to Nov. 11, the Jun-Mid power club once more walked over its opponent, this time the aging and tattered Sen team. With great effort the Seniors managed to put 8 men on the field, but not for long. It appears, however they play better with only 5 men as this was when their lone score of the game occurred. The 24-6 drubbing handed out by the Jun-Mids came only after a hard fought first half with the game really up for grabs as late as the fourth quarter. However, strength in numbers plus a great amount of individual talent has made this a really strong team. The win kept the championship lead in a tie for first as Alex continued its winning ways by taking Hodge. The up coming Alex. team is assured a tie for the league championship at the end of the regular season, as they do not play this coming week. If the Jun-Mids get by the Grad school then it will tie everything up and a play-off will be held if possible.

Story, Garber, Beck Among Award Winners

Dr. Cullen I. K. Story, S. David Garber and Norman A. Beck are among the winners of the 1963-64 academic awards of the Christian Research Foundation, Inc. The Foundation awards are made annually to both undergraduate and graduate seminary students writing on various aspects of Church History. The essays are judged for "their historical acumen, originality and stylistic distinction.

Dr. Story, who received the Th.D. degree last June, submitted his thesis of 283 pages on "The Nature of Truth in the Gospel of Truth and the Writings of Justin Martyr: A Study of the Pattern of Orthodoxy in the Middle of the Second Christian Century." A prize of $500 was awarded to Dr. Story.

Mr. Garber, a present Th.D. candidate at Princeton, submitted his Th.M. thesis of 131 pages on "Functions of Sacred Books in Graeco-Roman Religions Considered in the Context of the Primitive Church." The prize was $250.

Mr. Beck, presently a Teaching Fellow in New Testament at the Seminary, submitted a seminar paper of 40 pages on "Irenaeus' View of Authority of New Testament Writings." The prize was $100.

We congratulate these men for their work.

Dr. Hendry To Speak On Holy Spirit and Evangelism

On Wednesday evening, December 9 at 6:00 p.m. Dr. George Hendry of the Seminary faculty will speak on "The Holy Spirit and Evangelism" in a dinner-discussion in the small dining room. This is the second in a series of such meetings sponsored by the Evangelistic Fellowship in an endeavor to explore various aspects of the question, "What is Evangelism?" Dr. Hendry will be considering the theology of conversion, preaching and worship as they relate to the subject of evangelism. A sign-up sheet will be posted in the Campus Center Foyer. Boarders, $.25 and non-boarders, 1.75.

Florovsky To Speak On Prayer

If you have seen a white bearded man in town, wearing a black cassock, chances are you have seen Father Georges Florovsky. This year he is a visiting professor in the Princeton University Religion Department.

Father Florovsky is a native of Odessa, Russia, where he was educated at the University of Odessa. He holds doctorates from St. Andrew's University, Boston University, and the University of Salonica. He has been a lecturer in philosophy at Odessa, and also taught patristics at the Orthodox Theological Institute in Paris.

He came to this country in 1948, and was appointed Professor of Divinity at St. Vladimir's Seminary, New York City. Since 1956, Father Florovsky has been Professor of Eastern Church History at Harvard Divinity School. For three years, he was a vice president of the National Council of Churches.

We are very happy to welcome him to Princeton Seminary. He will speak on Thursday, December 10 at 7:15 in the main lounge on the subject, "Prayer," under the sponsorship of the Theological Society.

First Church Sponsors Trenton Center Project

The Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian Church in Princeton is seeking volunteers to assist in the renovation of the Presbyterian East Trenton Civic Center. This building, located at the corner of Olden and Clinton Avenues in Trenton, was formerly a church, and is being revised for use as a community center where professional and volunteer men and women may work toward educational, vocational, and social enrichment of people of the neighborhood, which is relatively bare of cultural opportunities of any description.

The immediate need is to adapt the building to its new use. Limited funds are available for purchase of materials; volunteer labor is being counted on to do much of the work. Volleyball

The 1964 Volleyball schedule got underway last Monday evening in good form. In the opening game of the evening undermanned Alexander knocked off Brown Hall but it took the full three games to turn the trick. In the second game the faculty team, liberally sprinkled with grad students, took two from the Hodge Hallers, all three games were extremely tight.

The closing games pitted the Married students against each other. The Townies led by hard spiking Steve Davis and Art Ware lost a very close 8-6 match, then came back and trounced the Hicks 12-4, but were finally succumbed by Mel Knight and crew, 11-3. So at the end of the first week, Alex, Faculty and the Hicks have all managed to knock off their opponents.

Here is the news you have all been waiting for, the All-Bush League selections for 1964. I have picked these with the help of various players and officials who have offered suggestions; however it was not a vote but rather an editing made of the suggestions.
Offensive Team:
LE Gordie Hess: gave his all even through the birth of his daughter. First things first, right Gordie? . . . LG Harry Capps: consistent blocker providing good pass protection . . . C. Mel Knight: a double threat as a blocker and pass receiver . . . RG Don McFerren: another hard and consistent blocker . . . RE Al Reutter: spearheaded a tough Brown team that was hampered all year by bad breaks . . . QB Loren Stenberg: almost a unanimous choice for his timely passes and good runs . . . HB Robin Paulsen: by unofficial count (his own) the league leading scorer; hard runner, good blocker and glue-fingered pass catcher . . . HB Joe Middleton: elusive runner and sharp passer until a bad knee grounded him in the last game. Dale Schlafer: this spark of the Alex offense shares this position with Joe. . . .
Defensive Team:
LE Dave Myler: a threat as both a rusher and a pass defender . . . LG Gil Horn: a consistently hard-rushing guard harrassing opposing quarterbacks . . . RG Barry Gruver: tough and low-slung, Barry mows down the opposition . . . LE Art Ware: rangy end with good pursuit . . . LB Howie Friend: heads up pass defense and occasional rusher . . . . LB John Semyan: heads up middle line backer . . . HB John Alsup: a fine "football mind" earned this two-way man an All-Bush position . . . HB Rick Thyne and Warren Lee: rangy Rick with his size and not so rangy Warren with his quickness share this position.

Student Council Profiles

Your Student Council represents a vital aspect of Seminary life. In order that the student body may be more aware of the dynamics of this council, a series of articles explaining its various committees is being presented. "The Wineskin" does this in the interest of student involvement.

Sonnie VanSant

Classes at night, coffee hours, outside speakers, dinner dances—it's planned diversity, the key to the Seminary Wives' Fellowship. "We try to be varied enough to reach the needs and interests of as many as possible," says President, Sonnie VanSant. "And any seminary wife (whether of faculty, student, or missionary) is automatically qualified to join in the twofold program of the fellowship.

The overall program consists of the monthly meeting which is of a spiritual, social or current event nature. The Planned Parenthood Association is presenting the January meeting. In February, there will be a dinner dance followed by a Home Arts workshop in March. A series of coffee hours with outside speakers is scheduled for April and May's meeting brings 'graduation'

Grants Available

To encourage research in areas of social concern for which it has been assigned responsibility in The Methodist Church, the Division of Alcohol Problems and General Welfare is for the third year offering five research grants to be awarded to graduate and post-graduate students in universities and seminaries.

The grants, in the amount of $750 each, will be awarded for the academic year 1965-66. Applications must be received at the Division's Office at 100 Maryland Ave., N.E., Washington, D. C. —20002 no later than April 1, 1965. Dr. Haskell M. Miller, Research Consultant, will announce the winners of the grants by May 1, 1965.

The research project must be in one of the following areas assigned to the Division: alcohol problems, drug abuse, tobacco, gambling, sex and moral values, juvenile delinquency, crime and rehabilitation. Also included are: mental health, medical care, problems of the aging, population problems, planned parenthood, public safety, general welfare policy and practice.

The National Conference of the Methodist Youth Fellowship is making an additional grant of $750 available for an acceptable research project designed to investigate the question of school drop-outs and the role the church might play in this problem area.

Application forms and further information regarding this program of research grants are available from Dean Homrighausen.

Attention Seniors

There will be an important class meeting on December 9 at which time Dr. Harry Roach, representative of the Presbyterian Board of Pensions, will present the pension plan which is now subscribed to by 95% of all United Presbyterian Ministers. Since this is one of the finest pension plans in existence for ministers, and since it may well be the plan which will be lived with for most of one's life, attendance at this meeting is urged upon all members of the class.

The meeting will be held in Stuart Hall, Room 5, beginning at 1:45.

Clinical Training Interviews

On Monday, January 11, Chaplain Kendrick R. Lee will be on campus to interview students for clinical training next summer in health and welfare institutions throughout the country. Applications must be filled out in advance of the interview. Application blanks can be secured from Mr. Lapsley, 14 Campus Center, where the interview schedule is posted. The meeting has been arranged for those who were unable to meet with Chaplain Lee on December 7.

for the wives—complete with diplomas.

However, the overall program of monthly meetings is only a part of the Seminary Wives' Fellowship. The fellowship also works with the Faculty Committee to set up wives' courses. There are 85 wives presently enrolled in the two Old Testament courses. One of these is a survey course and the other is an advanced course for those who have had Old Testament in college.

The main emphasis of this year's fellowship, however, is on the second part of the program—the individual circles which exist on a more personal level. Through these six, self-sustaining circles, the wives may find more individual involvement and interests. The circles also meet monthly and the programs here may be just as varied as desired. The discussions cover a wide range of topics and concerns. The circles also have their own social as well as other events.

The primary emphasis is on these smaller groups and the members within them in an effort to meet individual needs as they arise. These needs may range from sickness in the family to help for a social event—the help of the fellowship is always available. And it is from this closer association that other needs can be illuminated and friendships can grow.

The Seminary Wives' Fellowship is an unusual group. It is highly organized and, thus, the burden of the work falls on no one person. Serving with Sonnie VanSant in these programs and the efforts to find those needs which do exist are: Janet Wood, Vice-President; Martha Schilthuis, Secretary-Treasurer; Carol Armstrong, Fellowship; Joyce Hardwick, Wives' Course; Jan Davis, Social; Anita Conti, Publicity; and Mrs. J. L. McCord is the advisor for the group.

There is real fellowship within this diverse group and the program is flexible enough to go from Swap Shop projects to courses in Old Testament. Sonnie VanSant feels that the Seminary Wives' Fellowship is doing something worthwhile—"It is not a women's club or even a church circle." It is an active attempt to not only meet, but to alleviate, existing needs of the wives and to fulfill the multiple interests.

ry, electrical work or painting, depending on the progress of the various jobs to be done; but while these skills are needed, so is the help of those without such skills.

Groups will leave from the south entrance of the First Church on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m. and Saturdays at 9 a.m. each week, as long as help is needed. Contact Mr. Peter Erdman at WA 4-0623 for further information.

Planned Parenthood Forum: "Population explosion," "birth control," and "planned parenthood" are phrases common to most women but all too often they have relied on magazine or gossip session versions of what they mean. The Wives' Fellowship meeting planned for January 21 at 8:00 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium offers a more authoritative account by the Planned Parenthood Association of Mercer County. All seminary wives are urged to mark this date on their 1965 calendar.

Silver Communion Chalice: The Seminary recently dedicated a silver communion chalice, made and given by the late Thomas Klem of Morgan, New Jersey and Mrs. Klem. The chalice and a fitted rosewood case were Mr. Klem's last creations before his death. After conferring with the seminary officials last June, Mr. Klem shaped three cups before he was satisfied with his work. The fitted Rosewood case, which he also made, has silver hinges and clasps made from the same sheet of sterling silver that became the chalice.

The chalice and case along with a picture from the dedication are on display in the library.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed Thursday evening, February 4 at 7:45 P.M. in Miller Chapel. Members of the seminary community are encouraged to participate in this service marking the beginning of the second semester.

A program of piano and violin music will be presented Wednesday, February 3 at 7:15 P.M., in the Campus Center Auditorium by Peter de Haas, Seminary graduate student, and Miss Ute Kirchheim, a student at Rutgers University.

Mr. de Haas, a World Presbyterian Alliance fellow at the Seminary this year, has played previous student recitals in The Netherlands. He calls himself a "perpetual amateur."

Miss Kirchheim, who claims amateur status also despite her current work towards a degree in music, has studied violin for more than ten years in Switzerland and Germany. She is currently a member of the Princeton University Orchestra, the Westminster Choir College Orchestra, and the Rutgers University Orchestra.

The program will include works by Francis Poulenc, J.S. Bach, Domenico Scarlatti, W. A. Mozart, R. Schumann, and Antonin Dvořák. Duets, as well as solo numbers for each instrument, are included.

Mr. de Haas has stated that no wedding will follow the concert, even though the violinist is his fiancee.

A series of lunch hour organ recitals on the new Moller Organ in Miller Chapel will begin Thursday, February 4. The first recital will be played by Miss Joan Tuttle. Each recital will be one-half hour long, from 1:35 to 2:05 P.M. All members and friends of the seminary community are invited to attend.
